Reply on RC2
Francesco Cairo et al.

The authors thank the reviewer for the comments. In particular, they are ready to follow the reviewer's suggestion on the use of T-matrix codes to derive a range of R_th and, in this proposed perspective, of the particulate aspect ratio, which best accord with the backscattering and depolarization observations. This will be done in an upcoming redaction of the work, or in a new submission, following the instructions of the editors.