<https://doi.org/10.5194/cp-2021-133-RC1>, 2021

The article is a highly professional paper whose topic will be of interest to a wide range of specialists dealing with palaeoclimate. The results and methodology of the study expand the possibilities of reconstructing the climate of the past, paying attention to such an important aspect as the phenological season. The article is clearly written and does not need any improvements. It can be published without changes.
