Comment on essd-2021-388
Giovanni Scicchitano (Referee)

The paper is very interesting and could represent an important tool for the analyses of coastal environment not only for Australia. It is well written and clearly describe the scientific method behind the dataset analyses. I suggest to summarize, in the introduction, the relevance of the beach-face slope dataset. Conclusion paragraph is very long, I suggest to move some information in the discussion. In addition, outlook for possible future applications should be improved.