Editor comment on "Arctic Delta Reduced Complexity Model and its Reproduction of Key Geomorphological Structures" by Ngai-Ham Chan et al., Earth Surf. Dynam. Discuss., https://doi.org/10.5194/esurf-2022-25-EC1, 2022

Dear Authors,

Your manuscript has attracted two comprehensive and constructive reviews as well as a very useful commentary from the scientific community (Hariharan and Vulis). Both of the two reviews suggest that the paper can focus more on the scientific questions and objectives of the study, and the reviews and commentary also share a number of questions and suggestions on the technical aspects of the model development and experiments. I believe the reviews and public commentary provide an excellent way forward to improving the manuscript and I encourage you to submit a revised version together with an author-response document that includes consideration of the public commentary.
