Referee comment on "GC Insights: Storming the news media, the reporting of weather hazards during Northern Hemisphere Summer 2021" by Chloe Brimicombe, Geosci. Commun. Discuss., https://doi.org/10.5194/gc-2021-27-RC2, 2021

Overall, I find this short insight relevant and useful for the weather community. It gives a brief look into an interesting topic, that for sure can be further investigated (for example extended with interviews both of meteorologists and journalists, to get their view). However, since this is only a short insight and not a full research article, I think this looks good and ready to publish as it is.

If the author wants to do further revisions of the text based on (the really constructive and good) input from the other reviewer, I support that as well, as it will give more impact to this article.
