Dear Authors,

You have received two very detailed and extensive reviews, which I am sure will benefit your research very much if you follow-up on these comments. I am afraid that the paper in the present state has to be rejected. I cannot see how a revised paper would become acceptable within a reasonable period of time. After you have fully revised your work and benefited from the comments provided, you may submit it as a new paper, or submit it somewhere else. But make sure you have made the necessary revision before doing so.
