Author comment on "HMS Challenger and SMS Gazelle – their 19th century voyages compared" by W. John Gould, Hist. Geo Space. Sci. Discuss., https://doi.org/10.5194/hgss-2022-7-AC3, 2022

My response to more general comments by reviewers were posted in my author response on August 16th

I will also make the following, specific corrections

Line 79: 'by a small number' and currently 'researches'.

Line 82: '1868, notably'

Line 85 The origin of species (not origin of the species)

Line 91: 'round-the-world'?

Lines 103-104: 'few' and then 'many' in rapid succession- could you replace the 'many' with 'most'?

Lines 109 and 111 : Dumont d'Urville (without an r at Dumont)

Line 474: "Holderness, a position…

Line 560: compare spelling line 507

Line 677: "…isopods and other crustaceans…"

Line 860: 25 to (25)?

Line 881: Photographs were also taken ..

Line 956: "….in the ocean. The leading innovator…."

Line 972: "…..other experimental devices. One, designed by Siemens…"

Line 995: "Arguably, had the Challenger….

Line 1002: "...seawater, thus freeing…"

Line 1014: "...were not safe…"

Line 1188: "...called on…" not "called in"

Line 1992: "Thus, the major focus…."

Line 1403: add acknowledgement to Neil Fraser for preparing Figure 1.
