Dear authors,

before you start thinking about the revisions, I would like to encourage a strategic discussion about what big changes you are planning to implement in response to the very thorough and thoughtful reviews. This pertains in particular to work-intensive aspects such as using additional datasets or changing thresholds in your analysis as well as large re-structuring of the text. So please let me know what you plan and then we can agree on a path forward towards publication, potentially after a second review, of course.

Best regards,

Peter
